Events Services: Producer/showcaller

I have worked in the events business since the 80s and have extensive knowledge and experience of all the major departments. My particular skills are to do with client-facing activities on behalf of production companies: producing, show calling and stage managing, along with the associated skills of writing, graphics design, preparation and playout.

As producer I have extensive experience in conceiving, designing, budgeting and steering a project from initial idea through to successful conclusion.

As showcaller I have worked at all levels, from simple meetings through to complex launches, awards events and 'theatrical' exhibition events.

As stage manager I've been involved in a range of back-stage activities, from looking after celebrities to running 'live' backstage TV interviews, handling corporate team-building events and managing props for in-house 'theatrical' presentations.

I'm hard-working and pro-active, able to catch the ball and run with it at the shortest notice, or to become an enthusiastic player in a professional project team.

I have 30 years' experience of every type of corporate event, including producing major car launches, financial announcements and AGMs, tours and press launches, and exhibitions.

History

I started in the theatre business as a lighting technician, working in provincial theatres and the West End, commercial, opera and ballet. I worked at Glyndebourne Festival Opera as a staff producer before becoming involved in the corporate sector.

In the events business I began as a production manager, then as producer and showcaller. During this process I became familiar with graphics systems including Powerpoint, After Effects and Photoshop.
